COMPILED AND EDITED BY STEPHEN CHIN

I have always loved scales and enjoy looking for them in all kinds of music. As you play and refine them, scales can also allow you to concentrate on how various parts of your body work with your instrument. It is well known that scales form the foundation of most Western music and the patterns that emerge from the careful study of them are often helpful when understanding new studies or pieces. Using scales with a variety of bowing styles, rhythms, speeds and dynamics is also a great way to develop reliability and confidence with your instrument. Once this is attained, greater opportunities for expression and musical insight are possible. It is important to remember that whilst building your repertoire of scales, it is also good to focus on the ones that are evident in your current musical works. In addition to this, a solid grounding in music theory and music history is likely to make your journey in music even more engaging and enjoyable.

After the content pages, there are brief descriptions of some basic bowing styles, a number of rhythmic suggestions that players may find useful when learning new repertoire, and a brief overview of each scale genre presented in the book.

As a founding member of the Sydney Youth Orchestra, Stephen's interest and enthusiasm for music led him to undertake formal training at Sydney University in both violin and composition with John Harding and Peter Sculthorpe respectively. Stephen also attained a Master of Music from Queensland Conservatorium of Music Griffith University, under the tutelage of Michele Walsh, specialising in violin performance and pedagogy.

Stephen has been invited to perform with such groups as The ABC Sinfonia, The Badinerie Players, The Queensland Philharmonic Orchestra, The Queensland Symphony Orchestra, The Queensland Pops Orchestra and a number of professional chamber ensembles. He is also an examiner for the Australian Music Examination Board (AMEB).

Under the banner of Everything String, Stephen publishes a number of string compositions and arrangements which have been used as test pieces for a number of competitions throughout Australia. Notably, in both 2015 and 2016, Stephen was commissioned by the NSW Arts Education Unit to write works for several Sydney Opera House performances involving eight thousand primary age musicians throughout NSW. Additionally, as a gesture of good will and to promote strong international relations, Everything String has also donated music to a number of international organisations such as Serendip (Sri Lanka), the Ghana String Project and the Yew Chung International School (Hong Kong).

Stephen's compositions and arrangements are also presented as examination pieces in the in the AMEB books for violin, viola, cello and double bass. He has been invited many times to adjudicate various eisteddfods and competitions throughout Australia. Stephen is also in demand as a string and orchestral clinician, regularly conducting a number of workshops and festivals both nationally and internationally.

From 2013 – 2015, Stephen lectured in String Pedagogy and Practicum at the Queensland Conservatorium of Music, Griffith University and was the conductor of the BEL faculty Chamber Orchestra 2008 – 2013 at the University of Queensland. He has also written articles for journals such as The Strad and Stringendo.

Stephen was the Queensland State President of The Australian Strings Association (AUSTA) 2011 – 13 and National President for AUSTA 2014 – 2016. As a Past National President of AUSTA, Stephen continues to be involved in the Consultation Committee and is the International Tour Organiser.

In 2022, Stephen was awarded the National Award by the Australian Strings Association (AUSTA) in recognition for an outstanding contribution to the string community throughout Australia. This award is given only once every three years.

Presently, he is Principal String Teacher and Director of Orchestras at Brisbane Grammar School.

BASIC BOWING STYLES

It is a good idea to learn and refine each bowing style on open strings before applying them to scales and arpeggios. Importantly, aim to keep your body and in particular your neck, shoulders, wrists, hand and fingers, relaxed and flexible at all times. The brief descriptions are only suggestions, and your teacher may be able to provide further instructions for each bowing style. Setting up the bow hold by balancing the bow between thumb and little finger then adding the other fingers may also help.

Smooth bows at the frog - ① Raise hand and bend fingers just before down-bow ② Drop hand and slightly straighten fingers just before upbow.

Detaché - practise smooth separate strokes at all areas of the bow. Use slow bows initially then faster strokes.

Son filé - means "spun tone". Practise using very long bows with a variety of dynamics.

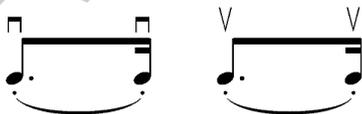

Legato - practise any number of notes slurred in one stroke.

Collé - is the basis of a number of other strokes. To establish good contact between the bow hair and string, slightly wriggling the string with the bow beforehand, using the thumb, fingers and hand, is recommended. These simple steps may help: contact → tiny bow (fingers & thumb move very quickly making a "clicking" sound) → lift.

Martelé - related to collé with the bow staying on the string. Remember to wriggle the string slightly beforehand using the thumb, fingers, and hand to set up good contact with the string. These simple steps may help: contact → fast bow → rest bow lightly on string, allowing the note to ring.

Hook stroke - related to martelé. Remember to wriggle the string slightly beforehand using the thumb, fingers, and hand to set up good contact with the string. Typical bowings are given below.

1 hook stroke - linked

2 hook stroke - unlinked

Spiccato – contact style; related to collé. It is bouncing yet more incisive. Practise both duplets and triplets at the balance point of the bow and a little further up the bow for faster speeds.

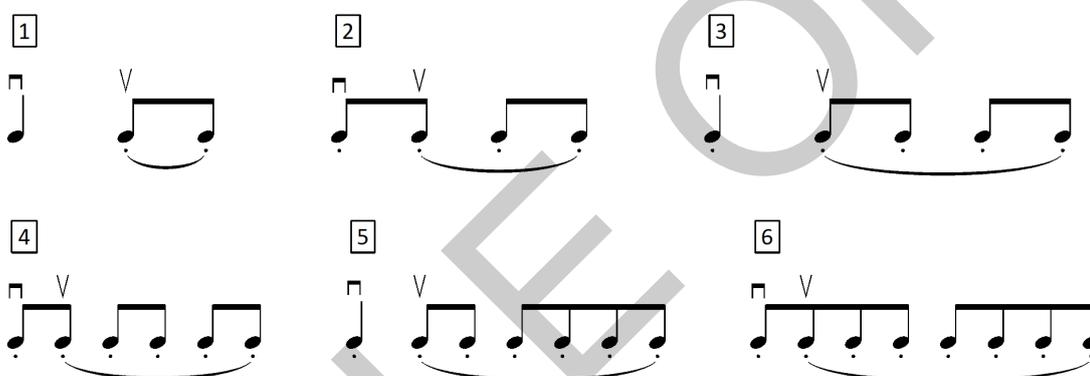

Spiccato – brush style; related to detaché - bouncing yet more broad (horizontal). Practise both duplets and triplets at the balance point of the bow and a little further up the bow for faster speeds.

Firm Staccato - related to martelé. Wriggle the string slightly beforehand using thumb, fingers and hand to set up good contact with the string. Typical bowings are given below. Practise slowly at first near the balance point then higher up the bow as speed increases. The bow stays on the string for each note. Arm may need to stiffen slightly as the speed increases.

Flying Staccato – related to contact style spiccato. Wriggle the string slightly beforehand using thumb, fingers and hand to set up good contact with the string. Typical bowings are given below. Practise slowly at first near the balance point then higher up the bow as speed increases. The bow leaves the string slightly for each note.

Flying Spiccato – related to détaché. Typical bowings are given below. Practise slowly at first near the balance point then higher up the bow as speed increases. The bow leaves the string slightly for each note.

Use for firm staccato, flying staccato & flying spiccato.

Sautillé - wriggle the string slightly beforehand using thumb, fingers and hand to set up good contact with the string. Use a tapping action with the right hand, keeping the bow hair quite flat on the string. Initially, practise semiquavers at 126 - 132 BPM with multiple strokes on open strings. After this play 4, 3, then 2 strokes per note. Single strokes for each note will require more precise coordination between the hands.

Ricochet – practise using a flatter bow hair in the upper two thirds of the bow. Faster speeds will be further up the bow. Typical bowings are given below.

String crossings – practise over 2, 3, then 4 strings with separate or slurred bowings. Initially, use open strings then double stops and chords as required.

Springing arpeggios - practise over 3 or 4 strings using a flatter bow hair. Applying alternating legato bowing with springing arpeggios for better control may be helpful.

BRIEF OVERVIEWS OF EACH SCALE GENRE

TUNING USING PERFECT INTERVALS

Perfect intervals are the only intervals that are common to Pythagorean and Just tuning systems. These have been devised to provide the player with reference points in a variety of positions. They should be practised daily even by advanced players.

FIRST POSITION SCALES

These scales are essential learning for the beginner violinist. A scale map shows precisely where the fingers need to go for each key. The light grey dots indicate the optional use of the 4th finger. In addition to the one octave scales, the other notes on the other strings are introduced. Both major and minor keys up to four sharps and four flats have been presented.

TWO OCTAVE SCALE SYSTEMS

These scales are useful in gaining greater awareness of notes across the strings. Maps of each scale type are given. Only Ab harmonic and melodic minor scales need to be slightly adapted. It is suggested that these scales be learned extensively before studying the three octave systems.

ONE POSITION SCALES

These are excellent in developing a strong sense of tonality throughout a variety of positions. The repeated note at the top of each position helps to remember the fingering when descending.

ONE OCTAVE ONE STRING SCALE SYSTEMS

These are great for acquiring a good sense of geography up and down each string. They are also useful in acquiring smooth shifts and fostering the correct elevation of the instrument.

THREE OCTAVE SCALE SYSTEMS

These scales are important in developing greater facility in all regions of the instrument. The 48-note system for the scales lends itself to groupings of 2, 3, 4, 6, 8, 12, 16, and 24 notes.

DOUBLE STOPPED SCALES

Practise slurring from the bottom note to the top note as shown below. Slurring from the top note for fingered octaves and tenths may be a little easier on your hand. Once this step is secure, try playing them as written.

Use for fingered octaves and tenths.

SELECTED TWO OCTAVE SCALES IN HARMONICS

The left-hand finger pressure needs to be very light. Bow nearer the bridge for clarity.

Try to get a little of the skin from the plucking fingertip slightly under the string. These scales and arpeggios are great for developing stronger fingers and a clearer tone for descending passages.

Tuning Using Perfect Intervals

- Aim to listen for difference tones for 4ths and 5ths.
- Repeat each section between the double barlines as you feel you need to.
- Timing may be free initially.

G

The image displays a musical score for the G major scale, organized into two main sections labeled 'II' and 'I'. Each section contains six staves of music, each staff representing a different fingering system for the scale. The key signature is one sharp (F#), and the time signature is 3/4. The notation includes various rhythmic values (quarter, eighth, and sixteenth notes) and rests. Fingerings are indicated by numbers 1 through 4 above the notes. Some notes have accidentals (sharps, flats, and naturals). A 'x4' marking is present above a triplet of notes in the third staff of each section. The score concludes with a double bar line and repeat dots.
